Thanks, John. I would appreciate getting some answers to the many questions about the basic nature of this situation from your client's view.

Chad,

Please let me know if you are available Monday at 9 AM MDT for a follow up call. I would like to have Shaen Bernhardt join us. Shaen is in Switzerland and works with AmeriMark. I may send you a few more documents between now and then.

In the meantime, I encourage you to ask Mr. Markosian to send you his emails relating to AmeriMark. He has many he sent over the last four years, including some that are quite recent. John

John,

You keep referencing other documents. If you have other documents and want to discuss them, then I suggest you send them. Otherwise I will assume this is the universe of documents.

My letter communicated our position on these issues. The documents you've sent at best are bewildering, even assuming they are not forgeries. It appears to me that a serious fraud has been perpetrated. Happy to talk to you. Could you let me know who are the principals of "Amerimark" that have retained you on behalf of "Amerimark"?

Best,

Chad

Let's you and I please talk tomorrow. If your client is contending that these are all forgeries, then that is something we should know going forward, and sending many more documents is not going to move the ball. Please let me know what your availability is.

Chad,

I'm a little perplexed by the question. Most of the original "wet" signatures were filed with a commercial register. Please ask your client about these and let me know if he contends all of them are forgeries, including his own notarized signature on his passport. That would be surprising. And I have many, many more such documents that he signed.

Please let me know when you can discuss further. John

Chad,

Following up on our discussion yesterday, these are but a small subset of the documents Mr. Markosian signed in relation to the share exchange agreement.

Perhaps we can set aside a time to talk later in the week? Thanks. john
